Dragon Ball Z TCG Combined Current Rules

Final Panini update: June 20th, 2017

Last FanZ update: February 3rd, 2020

Compilation: July 7th, 2020

This document contains advanced rulings and clarifications for the DBZ TCG and its fan-driven continuation, “FanZ”.

Since the game’s official retail demise in 2017, a dedicated group of former developers, judges, and pillars of the community came together to help the game live on through virtual card releases. This continuation has maintained the rulings and principles of the previous official rulings document, but with the release of more cards, it has also required the addition of new rulings and errata to maintain a fair, fun, and balanced game true to the intent of the original.

The purpose of this combined rulings document is to provide a single location for all official PanZ and FanZ current rulings. If you are new to the game, the initial section will contain all essential “core rulebook” rules that have been added to the game with FanZ. Beyond that section, many of these rules may seem superfluous or overly complex. For the most part, you will only need to refer to the CRD for specific cards, intricate scenarios, or balanced-based deck building restrictions. For ordinary gameplay situations, refer to Section 1 of this document as well as the Dragon Ball Z: Awakening rulebook (v3.0) – available for download here.

Panini Rulings and FanZ Rulings

The rulings in this document are intended to be used in all gameplay environments where FanZ cards are legal. That said, in the interest of posterity, we have still decided to preserve an indication of which rulings originated in the official Panini CRD and which were added in the fan-driven continuation. To that end, all official Panini CRD elements will be presented with a light blue background, and all FanZ elements will have no background.

Latest Additions

The latest additions to this document are noted with red text.

I. New Core Rule Additions

The following on-card elements have been added to the game with various FanZ releases.

Traits: Beginning with Set 8, Celestial Tournament, all Main Personality and Ally cards have been assigned one or more Trait(s) representative of their heritage, origin, status, and/or fighting style. All Personalities printed in FanZ have any relevant Trait Icons printed on their cards. Traits have no inherent in-game effect, but are relevant in the following situations:

Using a Saiyan or Namekian Mastery: Traits replace the “heritage” rule from PanZ, meaning in order for a particular Main Personality to be used with a Saiyan or Namekian mastery, that Main Personality must have the relevant (Saiyan or Namekian, respectively) trait on all four of their MP’s chosen levels.

Using a “Traited” Effect: Some card effects will reference a particular trait, followed by a colon. In order to use that effect, the personality (MP, or Ally, in the case of attack cards with traited effects) using that effect must have the listed trait on their current level. Otherwise, that effect cannot be used.

Fused MPs and Allies: Main Personalities with the Fusion trait are unable to include Allies in their Life Deck that match the characters from which they are fused. The full list is as follows:

Vegito: Cannot include Goku or Vegeta allies.

Gogeta: Cannot include Goku or Vegeta allies.

Gotenks: Cannot include Goten or Kid Trunks allies.

Kefla: Cannot include Caulifla or Kale allies.

Fused Zamasu: Cannot include Goku Black or Zamasu allies.

The Traits are listed below, along with any pre-FanZ Personalities that have retroactively gained that Trait:

Alien: Burter, Captain Ginyu, Cell, Cell Jr., Cooler, Dodoria, Frieza, Garlic Jr., Guldo, Jiece, Recoome, Salza, Zarbon

Android: Android 13, Android 14, Android 15, Android 16, Android 17, Android 18, Android 19, Android 20, Cell, Cell Jr., Dr. Wheelo, Mercenary Tao

Earthling: Android 17, Android 18, Android 20, Baba, Bulma, Cell, Cell Jr., Chaozu, Chi Chi, Dr. Brief, Dr. Wheelo, Gohan, Goku, Hercule, Icarus, Jimmy Firecracker, Korin, Krillin, Maron, Master Roshi, Mercenary Tao, Puar, Oolong, Ox King, Tenshinhan, Trunks, Turtle, Yajirobe, Yamcha

Fusion: (All Fusion Personalities have been released in FanZ)

God: Beerus, Kami, Goku – Super Saiyan God, Mr. Popo

Majin: (All Majin Personalities have been released in FanZ)

Namekian: Captain Ginyu – Frog, Cell, Cell Jr., Gohan, Kami, Lord Slug, Nail, Piccolo

Saiyan: Broly, Captain Ginyu – Body Change, Cell, Cell Jr., Gohan, Goku, Nappa, Paragus, Raditz, Trunks, Turles, Vegeta

New Text Changes and Keywords: Beginning with Set 14, Showdown, present and future card text has seen some cleaning up to preserve space and improve readability, and new Keywords have been added to aid in this effort. These changes and keywords are listed below:

Text Change - Stage Costs: Attacks with a power stage cost now simply indicate this with a number and colon following the Attack Symbol rather than writing it out. e.g., “Energy attack costing 2 stages” has been replaced with “2: Energy Attack”.

Text Change - Anger: Instances that would have referred to “anger level” now simply refer to “anger”, e.g., “Lower your opponent’s anger 1 level” now simply reads “Lower your opponent’s anger 1.”

New Keyword - Focused: An attack with the new keyword Focused has the following effect: “This attack can only be stopped by a physical combat or energy combat card.”

New Keyword - Remain X: An attack with the keyword Remain followed by a number will, when played, stay in play to be used X additional times this combat. For example, a card with Remain 1 has “This card stays in play to be used a second time this combat”, while a card with Remain 2 would have “This card stays in play to be used a second and third time this combat”, and so on.

New Keyword - Unstoppable: An attack with the keyword Unstoppable has the following effect: “This attack cannot be stopped.”

New Keyword - Unpreventable: An attack with the keyword Unpreventable has the following effect: “Damage from this attack cannot be prevented.”

II. General Rulings

These rulings address a variety of general scenarios that can come up during play.

Rulings in light blue are from the final official Panini CRD, all other rulings have been implemented in FanZ.

Ally Uniqueness, Non-Unique Allies, and Naming Allies: Some Ally characters have multiple cards available with the same name, but different subtitles. Your Life Deck may only contain one copy of an Ally by name, regardless of the subtitle.

Example – You may not include both Bulma – Genius and Bulma – Taking a Drag in the same deck because they share the same Card Name.

Cell Jr. Allies are considered Non-Unique – you may include 1 copy of each Cell Jr. Ally in your deck.

When a card effect requires naming an Ally, you do not need to name the Ally's subtitle. For example, "Bulma Ally" would be acceptable. When a Unique Ally is named in this way, any Ally with that name is considered a match. When a Non-Unique ally is named in this way, all allies that share that card name are considered a match.

Considered to be Named or Styled: Cards that are "considered to be Named" take on the name of your MP for all card effects. Similarly, cards that are "considered to be Styled" take on the Style of your Mastery.

Example – If your MP is Frieza, Black Back Strike would count as a "Frieza Named card" for Frieza's Supernova. Defiant Challenge would be able to search for Saiyan Freedom.

Copied Attacks: When you copy an attack, treat it as if you played an invisible copy of the card yourself. You do not receive any modifiers that the opponent applied to the attack, and AT damage is calculated from your personality's power level. If you copy an attack that stays on the table to be used again, it is not present on the table for a second use. If you copy an attack that attaches, the invisible copy does not attach.

Damage Calculation: When taking damage, Power Stages that have been converted to Life Cards may be prevented by effects that prevent Life Cards of damage (such as Endurance). However, effects that modify damage calculation (such as Orange Hiding Drill) take place before the conversion, and they do not apply to power stages of damage.

Defending Attacks: Whenever your opponent plays an attack, you may always play or use one "shield icon" card.

Example – A) Your opponent plays an attack that would already be stopped by Time is a Warrior's Tool. You may still play or use a "shield icon" card in defense. B) Your opponent plays Krillin's Destructo Disk. You may still play or use a "shield icon" card in attempted defense.

Discarding Damage: Life Cards of damage are always inherently discarded. When an attack such as Red Left Bolt or Saiyan Cheap Shot causes damage to be banished, you may use Endurance against that attack. Similarly, any Dragon Balls discarded during damage would still be placed on the bottom of your Life Deck and require a replacement discard.

Drill Memory: Instant Powers and "Activated" Powers of Styled Drills can only be used once per turn, regardless of them leaving play and re-entering play, even if a different copy of the card had been used previously and a new copy has replaced it. Non-Styled Drills with Instant or "Activated" Powers may only be used once per combat, but do not have “memory” and may be re-used if they leave and enter play. Drills with Continuous powers may use their Continuous powers as long as the drill is in play, regardless of them leaving and re-entering play.

Example – You use Orange Possession Drill. Orange Possession Drill is then destroyed, and in the same combat, you use an effect to search for another copy of Orange Possession Drill. Since it is a Styled Drill and you have already used a Drill with that name this turn, you may not use the power of Orange Possession Drill again.

Dragon Ball Immunity: Whenever a card effect allows you to “name” a card, Dragon Balls may not be named.

Example – You may not name a Dragon Ball with the immediate effect of Android 20’s Domination.

Dragon Balls: When taking damage, Dragon Balls that are banished (due to another copy being in play) do not require a replacement discard.

Effects with Stipulations: Cards that have a stipulation “to” perform an effect require that stipulation to be met in order for the effect to occur.

Example – You play Battle Pausing. You must banish a card from your hand in order to draw the top 2 cards of your discard pile.

Similarly, effects that retroactively check for a specific condition must actually meet the requirement.

Example – You discard Blue Guard to the effect of Blue Protective Mastery to stop an attack. You elect to use the replacement effect of Blue Guard to banish itself instead. You would not be able to raise or lower a player’s anger 1 level, as Blue Guard was not “discarded”.

Legal Zones: Cards that you do not own may only be controlled while they are in play. Cards that you do not own may never enter your Life Deck, Banished Zone, discard pile, or hand.

Example – You play Black Reflection, targeting your opponent’s Devastating Blow. Your opponent defends with Black Delay, which attempts to return Devastating Blow to your hand. Since you do not own Devastating Blow, it is not returned to your hand.

Future Gohan: Future Gohan is a unique Main Personality – his Main Personality levels cannot be mixed with other Gohan personality levels that are not Future Gohan, however, his Life Deck may contain Gohan Named Cards.

Naming Cards: When naming non-Ally cards for a card effect, the exact card title must be named. For clarifications regarding naming Ally cards, see “Ally Uniqueness, Non-Unique Allies, and Naming Allies.”

Non-visible Game Zones: (AKA “The Hidden Zone Rule”) Whenever a card moves to a non-visible game zone (such as a player’s hand or Life Deck), it ceases to resolve any remaining sentences/effects. Similarly, you would cancel any referential floating effects that target a card that has moved into a non-visible game zone. However, effects or parenthetical text that specifically reference leaving play/changing zones in any way (such as Kami – Guardian, Namekian Knee Block, Tenshinhan’s Preparation, Cell Jr. – Escaping, etc.) still carry out their text.

Example A – You discard Blue Lifting Drill to the effect of Piccolo – Combat Stance. Since Blue Lifting Drill has moved to a non-visible game zone (your Life Deck) while Rejuvenating from Piccolo’s effect, it ceases to resolve any remaining effects (and thus would not place itself into play).

Example B – You use Orange Nudge to stop an attack, and its immediate effect destroys one of your Drills and places it in your discard pile. At the end of combat, that copy of the destroyed Drill would be placed into play due to Orange Nudge’s floating effect. However, if that copy of the destroyed Drill had moved into a non-visible game zone (such as your hand), you would cancel the referential floating effects of Orange Nudge (and thus the destroyed Drill would not be placed into play).

Example C – Your Kami – Guardian is shuffled into your Life Deck by a card effect. Even though he is moving to a hidden zone, Kami’s “when leaving play” effect still allows you to search for a Dragon Ball.

Timing – Attack Sequence: The sequence of an attack step is as follows:

- 1) Pay any costs of the attack.
- 2) Use any immediate effects of the attack.
- 3) Opponent may play or use one shield icon card and use its immediate effects. It is then discarded/banished (if applicable).
- 4) Calculate and deal any unstopped or unprevented damage.
- 5) Resolve any floating or card effects that refer to the damage being dealt, such as “If you are dealt damage” or “if you are dealt critical damage”, etc.
- 6) Use any HIT effects.
- 7) If Critical Damage was dealt, you may choose a Critical Damage effect to resolve.
- 8) The attack is then discarded/banished (if applicable).

Timing – Competing Timings: When you have multiple effects to resolve with the exact same timing, you may choose the order in which they occur. If both players have effects to resolve with the exact same timing, the player who initiated combat resolves all effects first.

Example A – You have Blue Overpowering Drill and Blue Positioning Drill in play, and you stop an attack. You may resolve the effects of Blue Overpowering Drill and Blue Positioning Drill in any order you choose.

Example B – You declare combat and activate the power of Krillin – Ready. On your opponent’s next action, he also activates the power of his Krillin – Ready. Later in combat, a card is discarded from a hand. You would use the “next time” effect of Krillin – Ready first, then your opponent would do the same.

Timing – Entering and Leaving Combat: Effects that take place “when entering combat” are not considered to be “during combat”. Effects that take place “at the end of combat” are considered to be “during combat”.

Timing – Order of Effects: When you play or use a card, resolve its immediate effects in the order listed on the card (one sentence at a time). Then, discard or banish the card (if applicable).

Example – You play Namekian Wish. Resolve the first sentence, which is “End Combat.” Next, choose X cards in your discard pile and Rejuvenate them. You do not gain anger from the effect of Namekian Knowledge Mastery, as combat has already ended.

Timing – Special Timings: Effects that take place with a contextual timing (i.e. “whenever,” “if,” “after,” etc.) take place immediately after finishing the resolution of a sentence.

Example A – You play Namekian Right Throw and resolve its first sentence by shuffling a Dragon Ball into your Life Deck. After completing that, Namekian Knowledge Mastery’s “whenever” effect raises your anger 1 level for shuffling a card into your Life Deck. Then, proceed to the next sentence of Namekian Right Throw and raise your anger 2 levels.

Example B – You activate Black Devious Mastery by discarding Black Corruption. Resolve the first sentence of Black Devious Mastery by banishing the bottom two cards of your opponent’s discard pile. Then, Black Corruption’s “if” effect banishes the top two cards of your opponent’s Life Deck. Finally, complete the next sentence of Black Devious Mastery and discard a card from your opponent’s hand.

DEFUNCT RULINGS

These rules have been retired from the fan-driven continuation of the game. The reasoning for each rule’s retirement is listed below the rule.

Defunct Ruling - Drill Powers: Drill Powers may only be activated once per combat, but may be used again whenever they leave and re-enter play.

The Drill Powers rule has been replaced with the Drill Memory rule as a check on the power of overly recyclable drills.

III. Individual Card Rulings and Errata

A number of cards have benefited from specific ruling on how their effects are to be carried out, and another set of cards have required text modifications (Errata) to address either functionality or balance concerns. Cards are listed by set, and each card will either be a [RULING] or [ERRATUM], with the latter displaying a previous text followed by the updated version. Many cards with Errata have had Most Recent Printing (MRP) versions with corrected text – those versions will be noted alongside their Errata.

IV. Card Legality

While the game was in print, a "Frozen List" was established which would render particular cards illegal for tournament play for an undetermined period of time. The fan-driven continuation has maintained and added to this list in an effort to keep tournament play varied and interesting. Below is the current form of that list, with Panini additions once again marked with a light blue highlight, and the most recent additions in red text.

In addition, a small set of cards printed in the Premiere and Heroes & Villains sets were printed with gold text names. These Gold Title Reprints were intended to be direct reprints from the original Dragon Ball Z Collectible Card Game (Score Entertainment, 2001), though several had to be redacted due to their text and functionality not perfectly aligning with updated text used in the new release. Any card name on this list that is not ~~crossed-out~~ is a card which may be replaced with the original Score Entertainment card of the same title in a tournament environment.
